Five Questions About Images

1. What setting do you see? Describe the time and place of the setting. Use all five senses to describe the setting. Even though this is a visual image, try to turn up the volume on your other senses.
 2. What characters do you see? Describe the characters. How are the characters feeling? What names fit the characters?
 3. What is the relationship between the characters?
 4. What is the predominant mood of the picture?
 5. What is the conflict in the picture? If there is no conflict happening at this moment, imagine a conflict that just happened or one that is to come. How could the conflict be resolved?
