

Summary SheetChapter title/number: 12 & 13

Summary: There are 2 couple main topics expressed in these 2 chaps of the story. First, Muna tries to make sure Takanoa is his father before giving him the sword, and learns he isn't. Next, Muna runs to the mountains. He finds a temple and buries the sword underground and conceals it by putting plants on top of it. Last, Muna runs from the Mountains and heads back to the city.

I think what Muna did was very childish. He thinks he can just run away from the sword, but when he gets back to town he'll get an earful from Fuleji.
