Booklists

As you look through these booklists, you’ll find more than five hundred titles of books that have been divided into the following categories:

- Biography, Autobiography, and Historical Fiction
- Fantasy and Science Fiction
- Humor and Laughter
- Informational Books
- Mysteries
- Poetry
- Realistic Fiction
- Short Story Collections
- Sports and Sports Stories
- Stories Told in Picture Book Format

Many thanks go to Jeanette Choy and Erica Quintella, students at the University of Houston during this writing, who worked for months on these lists. More thanks must go to Teri Lesesne, young adult book review column editor for the NCTE journal Voices from the Middle, for her many suggestions to these lists. These three people helped immensely in creating these lists. While I borrowed their ideas without shame, I must claim sole responsibility for any mistakes made in these lists.

I’ve included young adult titles, fiction and nonfiction, that engage our reluctant readers. While the list leans toward the newer books, some older titles are so popular with reluctant readers that I simply could not omit them. If your favorite title doesn't appear in this list, then simply pencil it in. You, of course, need to be the final judge for whether or not a particular book is right for a particular student.
