HELP ADOLESCENT WRITERS MEET THE DEMANDS OF THE COMMON CORE—AND THE REAL WORLD

“Even if the CCSS are not adopted in your state, the theory and instruction we present is devoted to developing not only competence in literacy, but competence in life.”

—JEFFREY WILHELM, MICHAEL SMITH, AND JAMES FREDRICKSEN

Jeffrey Wilhelm, Michael Smith, and James Fredricksen share research-based, classroom-proven strategies for teaching the reading and writing of informational texts, argument, and narrative: the genres emphasized by the standards.

Strategies are linked directly to the standards and cover all the subgenres an adolescent is likely to need in school and in life.

Jeffrey Wilhelm, Michael Smith, and James Fredricksen believe that school should help students become passionate learners who use literacy to be active citizens. To support this goal, they turn instructional theory and research into accessible, classroom-tested resources like this one. Jeff and Michael are recognized leaders in the field as the authors of the Heinemann titles “Reading Don’t Fix No Chevys” and Going with the Flow, while this is Jim’s first book-length publication.
